

strath for's intentions

The Strath For Housing Alliance intends to build on the individual strengths of its members and to work, along with others, to provide more efficient and effective services.

Of primary importance at the present time is addressing the challenge involved in providing quality rented homes at the minimum cost to the public purse. The Alliance will therefore work with Local Councils and the Scottish Government to see how together we can bring best value to the Stirling and Clackmannan area.

The Alliance is already sharing staff resources and streamlining its approach to development policy and practice, and will continue to seek to work towards a preferred developer arrangement.

Collaboration is also underway regarding the provision of joint service delivery to our existing tenants and communities. These range from shared Money Advice services to collaboration regarding tenant satisfaction surveys, tenant conferences etc. In some instances collaboration extends beyond Alliance members.

Joining together to provide more efficient maintenance services and administrative backroom services are also being investigated and together the Alliance members look forward to preserving their constitutional independence while maximising the benefits of partnership working.
